Northwest Montana Lakes
Volunteer Monitoring Network
(NWMTLVMN)

In 2011, WLI partnered with Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks and the Flathead Basin Commission to coordinate the Northwest Montana

Lakes Volunteer Monitoring Network. WLI administers the program which monitors over 40 lakes and 50 sites adding valuable trend data over time for the management of these lakes.

Featured Project: Whitefish Lake Septic Leachate Study

WLI has completed the field data collection phase to analyze septic leachate along the shoreline areas of Whitefish Lake. Data collection looked for indicators of potential septic leachate from failing septic systems or breaks in the municipal sewer system. The main indicators used in the study were flourometric value, which measures chemical whiteners, e. coli., and human DNA biomarkers.

WLI will generate the study report this winter and will make it available to the public.
